Proudly Present

THE OPUS 7

1946 - 1947

A black and white photograph of a stage. Multiple spotlights shine down from above, creating a dramatic, high-contrast scene. The light beams are bright and radiate from the top, illuminating a dark stage floor. In the upper center, a decorative sign is mounted on a thin pole. The sign has a scalloped, ornate border and contains the text 'ARTHUR JORDAN & CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC' in a bold, sans-serif font. The background is dark, with the light from the spotlights creating a textured, grainy appearance.

Administration

... through these portals pass the administrative wheels of progress which daily churn the routine of our lives into the profession of learning Editor

TRIBUTE
TO OUR DIRECTOR

. . . . for it is she who so truly exemplifies the great spirit of Jordan. It is to her that we are indebted—not only for her kindly and infinite understanding of our problems, but for the high inspiration and enthusiasm she has brought to our daily lives. Her encouraging smile and wise counsel, given so freely to us and to the thousands who preceded us through Jordan's portals, cannot be forgotten in the years to come. In appreciation and admiration, the staff dedicates the 1946-1947 OPUS to
